Course Description:

Intermediate Cantonese I is designed for all learners of Cantonese who have completed first year of Cantonese course (CNTO 301/303 for non-Chinese and CNTO 311 for Mandarin speakers). This course will focus on both intermediate conversational and basic reading skills in Cantonese. Current colloquial and journalistic speech is the main focus; students will also learn about Cantonese culture through social topic driven language lessons and presentations. The course adopts a communicative language teaching approach which emphasizes the exclusive use of target language in performing various language tasks in the classroom. Students will receive instructions with material support from a textbook along with the use of authentic materials.

Student Learning Outcomes:

Upon completion of this course students will be able to use Cantonese to:

1. Understand journalistic reports on current event by listening and reading;
2. Discuss the Hong Kong-related topics introduced during the course;
3. Report on a current event;
4. Express personal opinions on relevant questions and topics learned in class.

Regulations for Cantonese Language Program1. ATTENDENCE:

- If you experience medical, emotional, or personal problems that affect your attendance or academic performance, please notify Arts Academic Advising or your home Faculty's Advising Office. If you are registered with Access and Diversity, you should notify your instructor at least two weeks before examination dates. If you are planning to be absent for varsity athletics, family obligations, or other commitments, you should discuss your commitments with the instructor before the drop date.
- Attendance is imperative for successful completion of language courses. Students who are unavoidably absent because of illness or emergencies should report their situation to the instructors as soon as possible. In such cases, a doctor's note or appropriate documentation from academic or departmental advisors explaining the absence, otherwise a 1% deduction will be levied against the final grade for each unexcused absence. Arriving late or leaving early for more than 10 minutes is disruptive for class and will lead to 0.5% deduction of final grades. Being late for 20 minutes or more or leaving 20 minutes before class ends will be counted as one absence.
- Students who miss class for more than one fourth (1/4) of the entire course will NOT be allowed to take the final examination at the end of the academic term and will not receive course credits.
- If a student has to miss a class, it is the student's responsibility to find out from classmates what course content has been discussed and what work has been assigned. Please see also the UBC Calendar for related information:

- Computers and other electronic device are not to be used unless they are required for class related activities. Cell phones must be switched off or to silence mode before class. Failure to do so in classroom is considered disrespectful and will lead to deduction of participation marks.
- No eating, including chewing gum, is allowed during class time since this is a conversational class. (Non-alcoholic) drink is ok.
- Please do not expect to receive an email response from an instructor immediately. Instructors will reply to students' emails within 24 hours during regular teaching days. Students are strongly encouraged to talk to their instructors in person if necessary.

2. ASSIGNMENTS

- Assignments are due at the start of class on their scheduled due date, unless advised otherwise. A student who turns in an assignment after the due date without a properly documented excuse will receive a maximum grade of "C+" for this assignment.
- If a student anticipates that he/she will not be able to attend a class and submit the assignment on its scheduled due date, he/she must notify the instructor in writing to make arrangements ensuring that the assignment is submitted PRIOR to the deadline.

3. EXAMS/TESTS/QUIZZES:

- No make-up exams, tests, and quizzes will be given without permission.
- Final exams are scheduled centrally by UBC; any individual request for earlier or late final exams will NOT be accommodated unless one has 3 exams within 24 hours. Make-up for final exam will NOT be granted unless written academic concession has been formally approved by the Dean's office. Students who wish to make a request for academic concession must inform their instructors prior to the final exam. For more information, please see <http://www.calendar.ubc.ca/vancouver/index.cfm?tree=3,48,0,0>

4. Academic Integrity and Responsibility

As a member of this class, you are responsible for contributing to the course objectives through your participation in class activities and your written and other work and projects. In the process of coming into your own as an independent, responsible participant in the academic community, you are encouraged to seek advice, clarification, and guidance in your learning from your instructor and/or Teaching Assistant. If you decide to seek help beyond the resources of this course, you are responsible for ensuring that this help does not lead you to submit others' work as your own. If an outside tutor or other person helps you, show this policy to your tutor or helper: make sure you both understand the limits of this person's permissible contribution.

Academic communities depend on their members' honesty and integrity in representing the sources of reasoning, claims, and wordings which appear in their work. Like any other member of the academic community, you will be held responsible for the accurate representation of your sources: the means by which you produced the work you are submitting. If you are found to have misrepresented your sources and to have submitted others' work as your own, or to have submitted work for which you have already received credit in another course, penalties may follow. Your case may be forwarded to the Head of the department, who may decide that you should receive zero for the assignment. The Head will report your case to the Dean's Office, where it will remain on file. The Head may decide, in consultation with your instructor, that a greater penalty is called for, and will forward your case to the Dean's Office. After an interview in the Dean's Office, your case may be forwarded to the President's Advisory Committee on Academic Misconduct. Following a hearing in which you will be asked to account for your actions, the President may apply penalties including zero for the assignment; zero for the course; suspension from the university for a period ranging from 4 to 24 months; a notation on your permanent record. The penalty may be a combination of these.

Academic communities also depend on their members' living up to the commitments they make. By enrolling in this course, you make commitments to an academic community: you are responsible for meeting deadlines; attending class and engaging in class activities; guaranteeing that the work you submit for this course has not already been submitted for credit in another course.

If you find that you cannot meet a deadline or cannot participate in a course activity, discuss your situation with your instructor or TA before the deadline or before your absence.

5. GRADING POLICY AND STANDARDS

- The Chinese Language Program strictly follows UBC and Faculty of Arts regulations on grading. Please see the UBC calendar and the Faculty of Arts website for more information, <http://www.calendar.ubc.ca/vancouver/index.cfm?tree=3,42,0,0> and <http://www.arts.ubc.ca/faculty-amp-staff/resources/courses-and-grading/grading-guidelines.html>
- UBC courses are graded on a percentage basis; corresponding to letter grades which are assigned automatically by the Registrar. Marks in this course may be scaled. If scaling is required, it will be carried out after each assignment, so that students will know where they stand going into the final examination. If scaling is done on the final examination, students will be informed if they ask to review their examination. Students should note that an unofficial grade given by an instructor might be changed by the faculty, department or school. Grades are not official until they appear on a student's academic record.

6. Students with disabilities and academic accommodations

In keeping with the University's policy of providing equal access for students with disabilities, any student requesting academic accommodations must meet with an Access and Diversity advisor (for example, accommodations might include a change in the allocation of University resources, or in teaching or evaluation procedures, designed to meet the particular needs of a student with a disability such as course materials in an alternative format, private exam spaces, the use of computers, or note-takers). The Access and Diversity advisor will provide a letter detailing the academic accommodations to be made, and assist in the case that agreement between the student and instructor cannot be reached. Accommodations should be agreed to as soon as possible, in the first week of class if not before.

Retroactive accommodations are not permitted, so if this applies to you, be careful to seek assistance in this regard immediately.
